Millville Housing Authority workers targeted

From Press staff reports

A Millville Housing Authority employee has been assaulted and three others physically threatened with violence since August for the authority's enforcement of lease provisions at Holly Berry Court, Executive Director Paul Dice said Wednesday.

All of the incidents have taken place at the complex, where the authority's main offices are located, and stem from the authority's policy of strict lease enforcement, Dice said.

Dice said the threats and assault have come from friends or family members who do not live in the complex or live illegally in apartments there.

Police recently charged two men in connection with making terroristic threats, Dice said. Further details, such as their names, were not immediately known. However, the suspects who physically assaulted an unnamed authority employee have not been caught, Dice said.
